London Dispatches

LONDON March 19 —In the House of Lords this evening Baron Redesdale said he had no wish to embarrass the Government but he thought an expression of opinion on the part of the House would be useful He therefore gave notice that he should introduce a resolution declaring that it is the common interest of all nations to decide whether belligerents who have been reconciled and become one nation can demand from a neutral State indemnity for damages done by belligerents

SHORT PARAGRAPHS

A man in Robertson county Texas has forty one living children Sixteen of them served in the same company in a Confederate regiment during the war He is now living with his eighth wife and is sixty five years old

The Shasta Courier of a late date says A party of engineers and surveyors are a few miles below town engaged in locating the railroad line preparatory to the advance of the grading forces Work is progressing lively this side of Red Bluff

Dispatches of to day state that the city of Hartford Conn has voted to give $600 000 for Trinity College grounds in that city, intending to occupy the site for a new State House Forty years ago the college paid $4 000 for the land Its value has increased nearly $15,000 for each and every year since the college has owned it

The Republicans who left the Republican party a few years ago because it favored the extension of negro suffrage and the adoption of the Fifteenth Amendment are now willing to accept Sumner who desired Chinese suffrage by striking out the word "white" from the naturalization laws These Democrats and weak kneed Republicans are no doubt willing to favor anything for office and power, and it was for this reason they feared to boldly meet the prejudices of a few years ago in reference to impartial suffrage

It is related that before the beginning of the war a number of Southern politicians called one day on the editor of the New York Herald, which always had a fair Southern constituency to induce him to espouse in his journal their side of the controversy They went so far as to threaten in case he did not do it the entire withdrawal of the Southern patronage from his paper with an air as if they should thereby ruin it Gentlemen said Mr Bennett the chambermaids of this city pay the Herald more money than the whole South

The New York Evening Mail says Surely there can be no good reason for keeping Colorado out of the Union any longer if it is true as reported that the Territorial Legislature just adjourned passed a bill dispensing with the tax levy for the current year because the treasury was already supplied with sufficient funds The Arcadian simplicity and happiness of a spot on earth where a public debt is unknown and where the tax gatherer cometh not is something that we have dreamed about but believed to be beyond the possibility of realization Think of a public treasury within a thousand miles of the Atlantic coast with unstolen funds enough in it to support the Government for a year It is among the things unseen and not to be hoped for

MANAGEMENT OF COWS IN HOLLAND —Prof Geo H. Cook of the New Jersey Agricultural College furnishes the Country Gentleman an interesting article concerning Dutch dairies One that he visited was fifteen or twenty miles from Amsterdam on a farm of 207½ acres nearly all in meadow and a pasture The land was at the level of tide water but was well drained There were forty six head of cattle kept of which twenty six were milch cows The average yield of each cow during the year was 4 894 quarts a daily average of 13.06 quarts This average is remarkably large—and of course much above the general average of the country The average yield of Dutch cows has been given at 2 835 to 2 940 quarts per year Prof Cook speaks especially of the marvelous neatness of the cow stables, which are under the same roof and only separated from the dwelling house by a partition and door They are not used in summer and as soon as the cattle are turned out to pasture in the spring the stables are washed out, the floors either sanded or tiled During the summer they are sometimes used for cheese rooms During the storms in spring or fall, the cows are generally covered with blankets while at pasture In winter the stables are frequently thoroughly cleaned and washed, and the cows are curried regularly

An editorial in Hearth and Home alludes to the lumping of such flimsy possessions as a little piano thrumming a smatter of French phrases a bit of embroidery or wax moulding, under the sounding head of "accomplishments." That only is a real accomplishment which is thorough. Sectarian Appropriations

[From the New York Independent]

Illinois has the merit of constitutionally formulating this fundamental doctrine of "a free religion in a free State" Meaning to make no distinction between Jews and Christians, Catholics and Protestants, believers and infidels, she shuts off what Mr Beecher calls the "sectarian tap" in respect to them all She treats them all alike by denying to them all any access to the public funds. Their religion, whether true or false, is not a matter with which she concerns herself one way or the other She taxes the people under the solemn guarantee that the proceeds shall not be used for [illegible] This question she will not trust to the discretion of her Legislature or of any municipal authority. Were a similar provision contained in the Constitution of every State or, what perhaps would be better were it made a part of the National Constitution—then the question of State subsidies to religious sects would be thoroughly and permanently settled This would be the end of the school question as between these sects and short of this point there is and can be no end to it

A PATHETIC PICTURE —George William Curtis paints the following pathetic picture, which every one could wish were less true to nature "I think of many and many a sad eyed woman I have known in solitary country homes who seemed never to have smiled, who struggled with hard hands through melting heat and pinching cold to hold back poverty and want that hovered like wolves about an ever increasing flock of children How it was scour in the morning and scrub at night, and scold all day long! How care blurred the window like a cloud, hiding the lovely landscape! How anxiety snarled at her heels, dogging her like a cur! THURSDAY MORNING MARCH 21 1872

The Republican State Convention

The proceedings in the Republican State Convention yesterday were characterized by harmony and spirit. For the platform we refer to the record of proceedings in another column. The nomination of Hon J G Wilson for Congress, being the second time he has received this nomination by acclamation, is a manifestation of the confidence which is felt by the Republicans of Oregon in his ability and fidelity. He came very near an election two years ago, being beaten by but 343 votes while the average majority of the Democratic candidates was [illegible]00. He will take the field this year prepared to make his best effort to carry the Republican banner to the heights of victory. Of the platform we cannot speak at length in this issue but shall discuss the points it presents in future. The Convention will reassemble at nine o clock this morning to nominate electors for President and Vice President, to select delegates to the National Convention and to appoint a State Central Committee. The District Conventions were held last evening. Doubtless the Convention will finish its business and adjourn sine die by noon to day.

Coast Harbors

The San Francisco Alta of the 10th inst publishes a long communication from a prominent business man of San Francisco who had in former years much experience as a ship master on our coast, urging the construction of a harbor refuge at Port Orford, in Oregon, and giving his reasons. He presents a list of the harbors and principal roadsteads between the Straits of Fuca and the Golden Gate, and concludes that a harbor of refuge should be made somewhere near the line between Oregon and California by the construction of a breakwater, and that Port Orford is the best point. The Alta thinks that his views are correct. It adds "Of course we would not have the Government undertake the construction of an expensive breakwater on the recommendation of only one private citizen, but the project is made so plausible, that it should be submitted without delay to a board of hydrographic engineers belonging to the Coast Survey. They should and we presume they would decide with sound judgment and with exclusive regard to national interests in the matter. Crescent City and Trinidad have both demanded the breakwater, but no considerations about the State line should prevent the California delegation from working for Port Orford, if it is the better place for shipping."

Prosecuting Attorney for the Fourth District

After the adjournment of the State Convention last evening the delegates from the counties composing the Fourth Judicial District assembled for the purpose of nominating a candidate for the office of Prosecuting Attorney. Geo H Durham of Portland was nominated by acclamation. Mr. Durham is a young man of industry, tact and ability, and will worthily fill the office. He has many warm friends who will be glad to support him.

And now comes in a pitiful wail in chorus from the Democratic press that New Hampshire was carried by the Republicans with money! Anticipating a defeat next month in Connecticut, they are shrieking "money money," in that quarter. The Herald is of opinion that the "Radicals" take money directly from the Treasury to do these things. The Salem Mercury oracularly says "It is on a par with the boasting of a highwayman over his ill-gotten gains wrested from his [illegible] victim, for our R[illegible] contemporaries to crow over their success in these States." It will be observed that all this proceeds on the supposition that at the bottom the Democratic party is so miserably corrupt that its voters can be bought up like sheep at so much a head. We trust this is not a true estimate of their virtue.

For some time past a statement which originated in Washington, has been current in the newspapers, to the effect that the Postmaster General had issued an order to Postmasters to take "mutilated currency" in payment of postage, and to send it for redemption to the United States Treasury. This turns out to be a misapprehension. A circular on the subject of redeeming "defaced and mutilated currency" was issued by the Treasury Department, and this, by some error, was attributed also to the Postoffice Department. The Postoffices are not required to receive such currency or notes in payment of postage. The Postmaster General has expressly instructed Postmasters that all funds received by them must be in current passable money.

The New York World (Dem) fairly howls with rage over the action of those Democrats who voted in Congress a short time ago to abolish the duty on tea and coffee. The World is what is called a free trade, that is, it wants free trade in all articles that we produce in this country and foreign competition to break down home industry in these branches, but it also wants a heavy tariff on such articles as we do not produce but must import from other countries. This is the exact reverse of the true American policy, and if it were adopted it would impoverish the country.

The amount paid into the British Columbia Treasury for liquor licenses during the year 1871 was $19 800.

The following decision as to the liability of parties taking checks for collection reported in the Bankers' Magazine for February is of interest:

On the 6th of November the plaintiffs doing business in New York sold defendants certain merchandise for cash. Defendants sent draft for balance due drawn on a private banking firm. On presentation of draft by plaintiffs, the banking firm gave their check on the Manufacturers' National Bank, and this check was deposited in bank same day. On the following day the check was returned from Clearing House, the Manufacturers' Bank having refused payment. The plaintiffs brought an action, ignoring the draft for goods sold, and offered to prove that the check was duly presented through the Clearing House pursuant to the general custom existing in the city and in the regular course of business. The court excluded this evidence as unnecessary, saying that "it is so well established and so universally acted on and has been for so many years that it ought to be generally known," and directed a verdict for the plaintiffs.

We understand that the French style of dress is to supersede the English with our exquisites this spring. Why do Americans have such a mania for appearing like anything but what they are, and make such frantic efforts to be English, French or whatever the prevailing mode may be. Innate donkeyism we suppose.

Now that Lent has commenced the girls have time to turn their attention to their spiritual welfare and their spring toilets and [illegible] the opportunity.

At [illegible] P M, pursuant to adjournment, Convention met.

The Committee on Resolutions made their report. The resolutions were adopted [illegible] and then on motion of J A Smith were adopted as a whole. The following are the RESOLUTIONS.

The Union Republican party of Oregon in Convention makes this declaration of its principles and policies:

1 To the Constitution of the United States and all its Amendments we pledge our unfaltering allegiance, to its authority a willing obedience, to its full and legal construction and enforcement our constant support.

2 That the success of the present National Administration in reducing the public debt, diminishing and equalizing taxation, administering every branch of public affairs with economy and efficiency, forming and improving the civil service, enforcing the laws without fear or favor, protecting the nation's wards with paternal care against the cruel avarice of speculation and fraud, and maintaining friendly relations with Foreign Powers, has been such as to command the approbation of the great majority of the American people, and justly entitle it to the confidence and commendation of every true Republican.

3 We regard the payment of our national debt, in full compliance with all legal obligations to our creditors everywhere, and in accordance with the true letter and spirit of its contracting as no longer a question in issue, but that we may be clearly understood, we denounce all forms and degrees of repudiation of that debt as affirmed by the Democratic party and its sympathizers as not only national calamities but positive crimes, and we will never consent to a suspicion of lack of honor or justice in its complete satisfaction.

4 We admit of no distinctions between citizens, whether of native or foreign birth, and therefore we favor the granting of full amnesty to the people of those States lately in rebellion, and we here pledge the full and effective protection of our civil laws to all persons voluntarily coming to or residing in our land.

5 We favor the encouragement of railroads by the General Government of the United States, and hold that such disposition should be made of the public lands as shall secure the same to actual settlers only, in quantities not exceeding 160 acres.

6 That while we are in favor of a revenue for the support of the General Government by duties upon imports, sound policy requires such adjustment of those duties on imports as to encourage the development of the industrial interests of the whole country, and we recommend that policy of national exchange which secures to the working men liberal wages, to agriculture remunerative prices, to mechanics and manufacturers an adequate reward for their skill, labor and enterprise, and to the Nation commercial prosperity and independence.

7 We believe that popular education is the sole true basis and hope of a free government, and shall ever oppose any diversion of, or interference with the common school funds or lands in this State for any other than their legitimate purpose, and we condemn the act of favoritism by the last Legislature whereby two hundred thousand dollars taken from the school fund were granted to a corporation consisting mainly of Democratic leaders and party favorites, for the construction of a work which another corporation, entirely sound and responsible, offered to construct for seventy five thousand dollars less, and that we are in favor of the passage by the Legislature of an efficient school law, such as shall secure to all citizens of our State a good common school education.

8 We find no terms sufficiently strong to express our disapproval of those acts of the last Legislature whereby the swamp lands belonging to this State have been taken from the needy settlers, and given without limit or proper competition in price to the land grabber and speculator, whereby the emoluments and salaries of State officers have been unconstitutionally increased and the taxes increased thousands of dollars by the creation of new and unnecessary offices and salaries, for the purpose of providing for party favorites, and whereby the citizens of our metropolis have been deprived of and denied the right of controlling their police authority. And we equally condemn the administration of our State officers and laws as extravagant, reckless, illegal and destructive, and we rightly charge all these results as the acts of the Democratic party.

9 We are in favor of the United States giving to each honorably discharged soldier who served in the armies of the United States to put down the rebellion a warrant for a homestead of 160 acres of the public lands.

10 That we demand the repeal of the so called litigant act, which was devised to support pauper Democratic newspapers at the public expense.

11 That the Republican party of this State are in favor of the General Government extending aid toward building a railroad from Portland, Oregon, to Salt Lake City, and from Jackson county to Humboldt, and we hereby pledge our party representatives to the support of the same.

12 That the indiscriminate licensing of persons to sell spirituous liquors without being placed under proper responsibilities for the abuse thereof, having been found by experience to promote the growth of crime and pauperism, and thereby seriously increase the rate of taxation, the Republican party recognizes the right and duty of the law making power to prevent and limit the evils and abuses of such sale so far as concerns the public good and is consistent with individual liberty, by refusing to license other than law abiding and responsible persons, who can furnish sufficient sureties for good conduct.

13 That the Republican party of Oregon is in favor of obtaining assistance from the General Government for the construction of a wagon road from the city of Portland to the Dalles, regarding this as a most important and necessary improvement for the State.

14 We affirm that the continuance in power of the Republican party is the only sure preservation of national peace and prosperity, and for reasons therefor we point to its brilliant record in the late civil war, to a complete nationality, to a united sisterhood of thirty seven States, to our Territories rapidly warming into State life, to a nation freed from the taint of human slavery, to an elevated and enlarged citizenship, to our national standing at home and abroad, to the work of vigorous reform in all discovered abuses of authority or trust, to an unequaled foreign credit, to a successful and sound financial system, and to the unparalleled peace and prosperity everywhere in our broad dominion, and these are our pledges for the future.

From San Francisco

SAN FRANCISCO March 20.—James alias [illegible] Riley, with numerous other aliases, better known as the "King of the Hoodlums," was convicted on trial for highway robbery in the municipal court. He has still a charge of burglary to be tried up. During his trial Robert Melos, one of his companions who was convicted yesterday, was brought from jail to testify as a witness in Riley's behalf, and on being left in the witness room in charge only of the driver of the Black Maria, he climbed out of the second story window and, letting himself down as far as possible with his hands, dropped in the street and although severely stunned and bruised, regained his feet and made his escape. The Sheriff and deputy are severely blamed for carelessness in allowing the escape.

A Struggle with a Tiger

DREADFUL SCENE AT FOREPAUGH'S MENAGERIE IN PHILADELPHIA—THE LION TAMER AND A TIGER—THE BEAST AT BAY—THE ESCAPE OF THE TRAINER.

[From the Philadelphia Post 23[illegible]]

A decidedly thrilling and dramatic scene occurred on Wednesday in this city. A lion tamer came within an ace of being torn to pieces by a royal Bengal tiger with which he was imprisoned in a cage. Only presence of mind on his part and bravery on the part of another saved him. At Twenty second and Nassau street is the menagerie of Adam Forepaugh, housed in winter quarters. Here it is that he has his wonderful collection of wild animals, which during the summer he exhibits in an extensive tour through the country. Among others he has two splendid specimens of lions and two magnificent royal Bengal tigers.

On Christmas Day there landed in this city Herr Darious, the great European wild beast tamer, who had been engaged by Mr Forepaugh, and came direct from the Zoological Gardens of Hamburg. It was his task to curb these beasts of the forests and jungle and make them submissive as lambs to his voice. The trainer at once set about his task in order to have the animals in perfect submission by the time spring opened. He had a large den erected in the south building of solid white oak three inches thick, with an open front, interlaced with iron bars crossing each other at regular intervals. At one end there is a door through which the den is entered, and in the center there is a swinging partition which divides the den into two apartments and which may be opened or closed at the trainer's will. In this strong den the lions and tigers were placed, separated by the partition except when being trained, when they are permitted to be together.

Every day since his arrival he has entered his cage and, armed only with a whip, has gradually broken down the ferocity of the beasts. Yesterday morning he prepared as usual to enter the cage. Once in he noticed that the tigers seemed uneasy and restless. They kept out of the way, skulked in corners, jumped over each other, showed their teeth, and when struck gave forth a growl that boded no good. The trainer faced it manfully for a while, but seeing that the beasts for some cause or other were really enraged, determined to retreat. By a quick movement he sprang backward and shut the partition door with a crash, but not in time to keep out one of the tigers, with which he found himself alone.

Now came the terrible moment of suspense. The trainer for an instant kept the beast still in the corner by the power of his eye, but happening to turn his head for a moment the tiger with a terrific yell launched his body into the air and came down upon Herr Darious, bearing him to the floor of the cage. Those who had been attracted to the spot stood palsied by terror as they gazed upon the spectacle of the trainer lying beneath the tiger's claws. Fear made them statues and they could render no assistance.

Motionless still as the herd lay the trainer, knowing this course to be his only hope. The tiger, with one paw upon the breast of the man, paused ominously and struck the floor with his tail. As a cat holds a mouse, so was the picture. But this time it was a human life almost within the jaws of a wild beast. Suddenly Mr Forepaugh drove up in his carriage, and rushing to the spot saw in an instant what must be done. The head of the beast was from him, its long tail switching to and fro with a cat like movement. With heroic bravery, quick as lightning, Mr Forepaugh thrust his arm through the bars, seized one of the tiger's hind legs, and bracing himself with his foot jerked it through the grating. "Quick, for God's sake, save yourself," he shouted, and as the tiger turned with a yell at the sudden pain, the trainer leaped to his feet and escaped from the den of death.

During the affair the roars of the beasts threw the other animals into the wildest excitement. Old Romeo, the elephant, the champion keeper killer, became almost unmanageable. In the upper story a gnu or hartebeest, one of Mr Forepaugh's recent importations, and one of the most vicious of all animals, broke through his cage and made an immediate and terrible attack on one of the zebra cages containing a beautiful and valuable animal. In less than a moment the front was battered down and the poor animal lay lying gored to death. Proceeding to the den containing the great eland, the gnu began to battle at the wire-work, but his horns becoming entangled he was captured and placed in safe quarters without doing further damage.

SUBJECT— Men Wanted

This motto frequently stares at us from the street corners and walls, but the men most needed are not to be had by advertising. We want men in every office and station of life. Often the nation needs men who have power to comprehend the demands of the times and to prove themselves equal to the necessity. We need men in every reform of a social, moral or political nature. We need men in the Church, in Society, in the State and National Legislatures and official positions. The great and prevailing cry of the present day is [illegible]. Not dandies, not idlers, not traitors, but men of nerve, brains, endurance, honesty and industry.

For such [illegible] the supply of room in every community, and the market has never yet been crowded. The subject is [illegible] and MR STEWART will treat it in a thorough and attractive manner. He is a fluent and agreeable speaker, possesses rich treasures of thought and language, united with a full powerful voice and distinct and pleasing elocution. m20dtd

THE COUNTY REIMBURSED —Mrs Daly [illegible] of "poverty" and [illegible] distress who has been receiving an allowance out of the county treasury for the support of herself and children until she had drawn from that prolific source over $250, yesterday [illegible] Judge Denny in his capacity as Justice of the Peace and paid into Court the sum above stated, and paid the costs already made in the action brought against her for the recovery of the [illegible] and stopped further proceedings The amount has already found its way back from whence it came, and Mrs D is but a few dollars better off than when she began her series of raids upon the county treasury She had deposited the money drawn from the county in the Bank under the name of Patrick Ready

SHADE TREES.—The past few days of summer [illegible] has caused many of our citizens to [illegible] and commence the improvement [illegible]. Already many are engaged [illegible] shade trees which, in time, will [illegible] the city as well as enhance the value of [illegible] in front of which they may be plant[illegible]. Who would object if there were an ordinance [illegible] all property owners—or rather owners [illegible] on back streets—to adorn the sidewalks with well chosen shade trees They are so [illegible] and display a taste which it is desirable [illegible] even in our adult population Let some steps be taken toward a more general planting of trees adjacent to our sidewalks

[illegible] A LONG WAY —Mr. Phillpot, a [illegible] in the employ of C. H. Marvin, yesterday [illegible] ending his earthly career by a fall from Mr Gale's house, of about twenty-eight feet. When the accident occurred, he felt much [illegible], but when Mr Marvin returned with a [illegible], he found Phillpot sitting down and whittling a piece of wood. For the in[illegible] of the reader, it may be well enough to [illegible] that had Phillpot been killed by this fall, he would have left a family who are now dependent [illegible], but through Phillpot's perverseness in [illegible] a slight fall to kill him, he yet lives.

[illegible]ATIONS FOR DISTRICT ATTORNEYS —The [illegible] from the First Judicial District have not as yet made a nomination of District Attorney for that District, but probably will this [illegible] T C Hyde, Esq, of Canyon City, Grant county, has been chosen as the candidate in the Fifth District; Geo H Durham, Esq, for [illegible] and N B Humphrey for the Third [illegible] These nominations will be confirmed by the [illegible] tion F A Chenoweth Esq, has been confirmed as a candidate for the [illegible] District.

TAX-PAYERS —The books of the Sheriff will be [illegible] on the 28th of this month, after that all lands and lots, the taxes on which are unpaid, will be [illegible] delinquent Therefore, to save money the tax payer must take time by the fore lock and see that his taxes are all paid by that date. The costs attending delinquency of lands for taxes is no small matter, hence the wise and [illegible] will guide themselves accordingly

SAVED.—Mr Benj. Simpson received a telegram [illegible] day announcing the safety of his [illegible], the Elnora, which had been blown ashore at Ya[illegible] Bay, and for several days supposed to be in danger of serious damage or loss. [illegible] ashore some time last week while [illegible] to sail out of the harbor The damage is not reported but it is probably [illegible] able.

THE RIOT.—This morning in the Police Court, the [illegible] among the firemen, which occurred last week, was ended by Judge Denny finding [illegible] guilty, and levying a fine of $5 and costs of the action Another action pending [illegible] Thus it is hoped that that [illegible] is ended for all time

POLICE COURT.—Yesterday, G Mitchell (not he who [illegible] purchaser at "dead horse sales) and J. Tribou, were each fined $5 for being drunk, [illegible] drunk, etc., the day previous Kate [illegible], for being disorderly on Second street, was [illegible] $20, which she paid and departed

[illegible] LECTURE —The Rev W. R Stewart, of [illegible] will deliver the fourth lecture of the course [illegible] of the Young Men's Christian Association. Subject "Men Wanted" We are [illegible] it will prove very interesting and [illegible]

[illegible] IMPROVEMENT —The improvement [illegible] by the O S N Company to their [illegible] extending a portion of the same to deep [illegible] is nearing completion

[illegible] Major Robert, Chief Engineer of [illegible] of the Columbia, returned from the [illegible] country by yesterday's train

AMUSEMENTS.

Mrs. C. Parrish will this evening be tendered a [illegible] the institution over which Mrs and Mr Parrish preside A pleasant time may be [illegible]. The party will be had at Armory Hall

[illegible] CALICO BALL.—We have received cards of invitation to the grand Calico ball to be given by the First Ladies' Hebrew [illegible] Society, which is advertised in another [illegible]

THE THEATER —A fair audience was [illegible] last evening to witness the sensational play of the "Long Strike" which was produced in first style To night the ever popular play of "[illegible]" will be presented for the first benefit of Manager Waldron The success of [illegible] and the popularity of Mr Waldron [illegible], is a sufficient guarantee that the [illegible] will be filled to the last seat and we would not be surprised to see many standing

The Parlor Entertainment at the Unitarian [illegible] last evening was well attended and much [illegible] The readings were very finely rendered, among which the following were noticeable: "Cry of the Factory Children," by Mrs [illegible]; "Enchanted Shirts," by Mrs Put Smith; [illegible] O'Brien," by Capt Myrick The musical portion of the programme was a real treat, the most noticeable being the duet "La ci darem" by Miss DuBois and Mr Nesfield Male quartette by Messrs Nesfield, Wyatt and Schuyler Miss DuBois' rendition of "Un Angelo D Amor," [illegible] giving her an opportunity of dis[illegible] the scope and power of her voice which [illegible] good, clear, round tone, and with careful [illegible] will, in a short time, add another [illegible] to the list of stars in Portland

A REMARKABLE CURE OF PALSY

WM BURDEN A STOCK RAISER OF WILLOW CREEK WASCO COUNTY, OREGON, LOST THE USE OF HIS LEFT ARM BY PALSY WAS CURED IN TEN MINUTES BY DR. ABORN, CORNER THIRD AND MORRISON STREETS, PORTLAND

To the Afflicted:—I wish to state that I lost the use of my left arm from my shoulder to the end of my fingers by a stroke of palsy I could not raise my hand or arm from my side and was fearful that there was no cure for me My friends at the Dalles advised me to visit Portland and place myself under the care of Dr Aborn I arrived in Portland last evening by the Dalles boat and immediately called at Dr Aborn s office and made my case known The Doctor commenced treatment at once and in ten minutes time to my great surprise and joy, he performed a complete cure, so that I now have the use of my arm hand and fingers, and can raise my arm up over my head with as much ease as I can raise my right arm. This certainly is a very remarkable cure, and in my estimation speaks volumes to the skill of Dr Aborn I am stopping at the American Exchange Hotel and will leave on the boat to-morrow for home I am a stock raiser, and reside at Willow creek, Wasco county Oregon eighty miles south of the Dalles

Atmospheric Poison

The spring [illegible] calls up something besides the flowers and grasses It evolves from the damp earth turbid rivers stagnant pools and black morasses the gaseous provocatives of disease From the offal and garbage of uncleanlines too it exhales an effluvia destructive of health and vigor Periodic fevers of various types are now raging with unusual virulence in various parts of the country and there are complaints from all quarters of a singularly unhealthy spring The answer is simple and to the point Strengthen the body Weakness predisposes the system to disease Commence at once a course of the most genial of [illegible] Hostetter's Stomach Bitters Be assured that the germs of epidemic and endemic fevers will never affect the physique that has been fortified and regulated with this glorious vegetable restorative A moist atmosphere aggravates dyspepsia and all disease of a bilious type and the sudden thermometrical changes common at this season are a severe trial even to strong constitutions There is but one way of combatting these deleterious agencies and that is by invigorating the body and imparting a healthy activity to all its functions The only specific required for this purpose is Hostetter s Bitters Of all vegetable tonics and alteratives it is the purest and the best Its medicinal ingredients include all the juices and extracts of the most approved tonic anti bilious and anti septic products of the Botanic Kingdom and they are combined with a stimulant far superior in quality to the alcohol used in preparing the tinctures and extracts of the regular pharmacopœia

All the Moscow students who signed the address in favor of liberty of the press have been banished to Siberia

It is rumored that the bill of damages in connection with Cuban affairs is being made out at the State Department against Spain which will make an American case as ugly as that for the Geneva Conference

At a trial of the Holly Water Works at Big [illegible] recently, water was thrown to a hight of over 160 feet perpendicular with but one rotary pump and 20 pounds of steam These water works will soon be in operation

A man in the East has patented an iron shingle roof The shingles are about six by thirteen inches lap each other so as to insure a water proof and are fastened by head less nails The patent is said to be less expensive than slate

According to official returns the total number of spirit distilleries in the United States February 1 1872, was 313 with a daily producing capacity of 213 503 gallons a decrease since the first of January in the daily producing capacity of 11 846 gallons

In the island of Java the deficiency in the coffee crop this year will be 20 000 tons the Brazil crop will fall short some 70 000 tons the Ceylon crop will fall short nearly 10,000 tons It is thus estimated that the coffee crop of the world will fall short of last year fully 100 000 tons

A Pittsburg paper says The attention of the glass manufacturers of Pittsburgh is invited to the consideration of a revolution in glass making which has lately taken place in Finland Glass has been successfully made from a granite called eupakivi found there, the composition of which, upon analysis, was found to contain silica 74 per cent, feldspar, 15 oxide of iron 3 lime 1 alkalies with traces of magnesia, 9 and this approaching the requirements for the making of glass, an experiment followed in which 500 parts of granite and 200 parts of limestone were melted together A white glass resulted The second experiment was with 500 parts of granite, 150 of lime, and 75 of soda, produced a more fusible but a harder glass

Effects of Destroying Timber

Not long since a Honolulu paper devoted a column to a consideration of the evils actual and prospective, which were connected with the destruction of forests at the Sandwich Islands The sugar plantations consumed large quantities of wood and the wild cattle were very destructive to timber Some of the more precious woods had almost disappeared The climatic changes resulting from laying bare so large an area of country are now already beginning to be felt Unless this destructive tendency was arrested, there would some day be treeless and barren islands in the place of forests and verdure Concurrent with this testimony is that of the Springfield Republican, given at a point five thousand miles distant from the Islands

With the destruction of the forest timber of New England and the gradual moderation of winter seasons in some of which, like the present, scarcely any snow falls, the water courses, the main support of the great manufacturing interest, proportionately fail Every winter the cry of low water comes up from all parts of New England, and especially from the three Southern States Not only the mountain streamlets are dry, but the rivers can no longer be depended upon Take the present instance of a large manufacturing town in this State, in which a dozen factories are situated on a small stream which has served them for forty years, and never failed them until last year But then the mills were closed for three months, and that too in the hottest season of the year thereby entailing suffering on the people and much damage to the town Again this year the same inaction is forced upon them and with less snow on the hills than the year before there is no hope of doing anything until late in the spring without the fall of copious and continued rains The large river into which this stream enters is hardly in a better condition, and what is true of this town is true of many The question arises, what is to be done

Nothing Remains at Rest

It is a fallacy to suppose there is any such thing as rest to matter There is not a particle in the universe which is not on the move nor a drop of fluid on the globe that is perfectly quiescent, not a fibre in the vegetable kingdom in a state of inactivity In animal bodies, from monads to the complicated organism of man, every part and parcel, even in the solids, are incessantly moving among themselves, and their component elements never cease to act in accordance with that universal law till death stops the machinery Even then a new series of movements commence at that culminating point Chemical dissolution of organic structures is but a liberation of molecules, the aggregation of which was necessary for a corporeal beginning and subsequent growth, and they then dispersed to enter into new relations and new forms and thus one never-ending circle of activity characterizes the material universe

Death is a dissolution of the union that existed for a limited period of what is called life with organized matter How that union commenced is as much of a divine mystery as their separation They are distinct in nature and character, although one cannot manifest itself without the brains and nerves of the other

Astronomy reveals the astounding intelligence that there are no fixed or stationary bodies in the unsurveyed regions of celestial space Even the fixed stars, as they were once considered permanent land marks in the heavens are coursing with undefined rapidity in the train of countless globes of shining glory, on a circuit too distant to be followed even by human imagination in the boundless realms only known to that God who controls the mighty whole

Everything, therefore, is moving When motion ceases there will be a wreck of worlds, and a crush of an entire universe Life is motion, inertia to our finite minds is death Nature however neither modifies nor repeals a law and consequently those now in force will operate with unerring certainty through the endless cycles of eternity

John Burns

By Bret Harte

Have you heard the story that gossips tell
Of Burns of Gettysburg?—No? Ah, well:
Brief is the glory that hero earns,
Briefer the story of poor John Burns:
He was the fellow who won renown,—
The only man who didn't back down
When the Rebels rode through his native town;
Who held his own in the fight next day
When all his townsfolk ran away.
That was in July sixty-three,
The very day that General Lee,
Flower of Southern chivalry,
Baffled and beaten, backward reeled
From a stubborn Meade and a barren field.

Just where the tide of battle turns,
Erect and lonely, stood old John Burns.
How do you think the man was dressed?
He wore an ancient long buff vest,
Yellow as saffron—but his best;
And buttoned over his manly breast
Was a bright blue coat, with a rolling collar
And large gilt buttons—size of a dollar,—
With tails that the country folks called "swaller."
He wore a broad brimmed, bell-crowned hat,
White as the locks on which it sat.
Never had such a sight been seen
For forty years on the village green,
Since old John Burns was a country beau,
And went to the "quiltings" long ago.
Close at his elbows all that day
Veterans of the Peninsula,
Sunburnt and bearded, charged away;
And striplings, downy of lip and chin—
Clerks that the Home Guard mustered in,—
Glanced, as they passed at the hat he wore,
Then at the rifle his right hand bore;
And hailed him from out their youthful lore
With scraps of slangy repertoire:
"How are you, White Hat?" "Put her through!"
"Your head's level," and "Bully for you!"
Called him "Daddy,"—begged he'd disclose
The name of the tailor who made his clothes,
And what was the value he set on those;
While Burns, unmindful of jeer or scoff,
Stood there picking the Rebels off—
With his long brown rifle and bell-crown hat,
And the swallow tails they were laughing at.

'Twas but a moment, for that respect
Which clothes all courage their voices checked;
And something the wildest could understand
Spake in the old man's strong right hand,
And his corded throat, and lurking frown
Of his eyebrows under his old bell crown;
Until, as they gazed, there crept an awe
Through the ranks in whispers, and some men saw
In the antique vestments and long white hair
The Past of the Nation in battle there;
And some of the soldiers since declare
That the gleam of his old white hat afar,
Like the crested plume of the brave Navarre,
That day was their oriflamme of war.

So raged the battle. You know the rest:
How the Rebels, beaten and backward pressed,
Broke at the final charge and ran.
At which John Burns—a practical man—
Shouldered his rifle, unbent his brows,
And then went back to his bees and cows.

Fighting with Whales

[Scene [illegible] of the Boston Commercial Bulletin.]

We are now within a cable's length of the nearest whales, a score of boats close in our wake and another ship's boat lapping upon us. Grim old John Daggett, our first mate, seemed going mad, his eyes starting from their sockets, teeth clenched, and bare-headed. I could see the veins in his forehead and great brawny arms swell almost to bursting as the fever heat of the chase came on. I pulled the after oar, and so he guided the boat with one hand, his other, at every stroke, caught my oar, throwing it against my breast while its long blade quivered like a piece of springing steel. Still the other boat gained—creeping slowly abreast of us.

"Pull, men—oh, if you love money, pull! Don't let that boat pass us! Oh, spring, every mother's son of you—boys, if you love me, pull. A keg of terbacker among ye, if we get up to this whale! Ah, he blows! Oh, God, what a back, broader'n the old woman's parlor. Steady, now, men—not a whisper, if you want to live! One more stroke—stand up, harpooner. Don't ye miss him, boy! Look out when he rounds up—cool, my boy cool—give it to him!"

Down under my oar-blade I saw a huge black body, and the boat struck something harder than a wave.

"Starn all! starn! I tell ye," thundered grim old Vickings, and I knew that we were fast. Heavens! how the line flew out, as, maddened with pain, the monster plunged downward. One—two—three hundred fathoms of line out, not a sound in the boat, save the cracking of the line as it runs smoking around the loggerhead, the mate tightening it every pound it would bear—every man braced firm in his seat, grasping his oar and waiting. But now the slender cord slackens, for, tired and breathless, our prey is coming up.

As I leaned over the gunwale, the waters were clear as crystal, and I fancied I could see to immense depths in the calm and translucent element. Is it possible a more than mortal giant is coming thence to battle with us? and in a few moments will it be his blood or ours that shall turn this pellucid sea to lurid crimson? A shout startled me, and, looking around, there, lashing the sea to mad drifts, rolled our prey. And what an antagonist! At least eighty feet long, of huge girth, he lay on his back (the favorite way of fighting, of the cachelot,) his head depressed, and jaw full fifteen feet long, elevated in the air and bristling with sharp, gleaming white teeth. His roaring was fearful. Down to our oars, and in a moment our mate had his lance at work.

Keen as a razor blade, that long, thin lance found its way through hide and sinew, past piled up flesh and rib, burying its head in the very vitals of the monster. His throes of agony were terrible and pitiful. At every lance thrust his huge body would quiver along its entire length, and the bright red blood, hot from his heart, rush in a torrent from his spiracle. In vain he turns upon us—the well trained crew slip the boat out from under his very jaw, as he shuts it down to crush us, and as he rushes by again the lance cuts its cruel way.

No play, this kind of hunting. No long-range rifles fired from a safe distance. A grand hand-to-hand combat, grappling the greatest living animal in a life and death struggle. No place in that boat for weak nerves. These be earnest men, snatching subsistence for their families from out of the sea, and conquering its king. He strives to escape but the iron is galling, and spouting ten gallons of blood at every breath, he is growing weak. The blood has covered us, and old mate looks like the butcher he is. Oh! old fellow—your enemies have closed upon you, and know no fear. It is your life or theirs, and man triumphs over the brute.

But now the coup de grace is given, and he is dying. On his side, swimming blindly, he sweeps grandly around in a narrowing circle until at last, heading toward the sun as vision grows more and more dark, a mighty throe shakes the huge form, a convulsive shudder as in a last vain struggle for life—and a huge, unwieldy mass, heaving upon the long swells, attests man's supremacy upon water as well as upon land.

While we had been at work, the other boats had not been idle. When our whale reappeared from his first mad plunge, the school had surrounded him, or, in whaler's parlance "brought to," for there is a deal of honest sympathy in a school of sperm whales. A fleet of boats dashed in, and each quickly selecting its prey commenced the work of death. The scene was a perfect pandemonium—the whales entangling in many lines, striving to escape, [illegible] one on his back his great bristling jaw elevated, and lines attached to other whales went round and round it, there another, trying to fight his way clear of the mass dealing tremendous blows with flukes and fins. The surrounding boats press upon them, the lances flashing in the sunlight, the shouting crews covered in blood wild with excitement and joy. The waves caught a bright red tint, we were floating in a sea of blood.

But, one after another, away from the entangled mass, went into his "flurry," and dragging after him the boat, its officers still plying the lance—the monster, forsaken by the school yielded and turned "fin up." Our ship secured three of the prizes among which our boat captured the king being what is termed a "hundred barl feller." At noon we had them alongside the ship secured them with massive chains made sail to gain an offing before beginning the work of cutting in.

The American bark Corea from New York laden with Railroad iron for the North Pacific Railroad is due next month. She is [illegible] days out to-day.

The American ship A M Small from New York is [illegible]. She is due in May.

The Oregon and California Railroad Company is [illegible] forward large quantities of [illegible]

Business for the week [illegible] dull but is now fairly active under an improved call from the upper end of the valley from down the Columbia and its tributaries and from points east of the Cascades. We are informed that one or two large buyers from Lewiston are in the market [illegible] points east of the Cascades.

With the present favorable weather it is fair to presume that merchants from the Umpqua valley will be in the market shortly. Our merchants should see that that trade is not lost to us by any inattention on our part. That purchases can be made cheaper in this market in jobbing lots than in San Francisco we are firmly convinced but at the same time many interior merchants wish their trade sought for and consequently will only bestow it upon those houses seeking it. The trade of Umpqua valley is important. It is not very large and increasing in volume but is healthy. From information obtained by us there is not a merchant or firm of any standing in the valley but is solvent. This is one of the most desirable features of the trade.

It is conceded by all writers on political economy that a diversity of Agricultural pursuits is absolutely necessary for the general prosperity of a State and it is also conceded that the same rule applies to farming. A successful farmer is one who does not seed all his land with one kind of Grain, and we are pleased to note the increased attention shown by our farmers to produce diversified crops for it can but inure greatly to the advantage of the State as well as the farmers. There is one article—Tobacco—consumed to a great extent which we are satisfied, judging from a small field of Tobacco shown us in the fall of 1870 in Washington county, can be cultivated very successfully by proper attention. The price commanded by Tobacco in leaf justifies extensive farming. The cultivation of Tobacco in Connecticut has been carried on for a long series of years, but it is only lately that a new method has been found out by which a very large crop can be secured and the leaf improved in quality to such an extent as to cause it to command prices that are only commanded by Tobacco raised in Cuba or Florida. The discovery consists in using stable manure as a fertilizer. Why cannot the same method be adopted by our farmers here? The end justifies the experiment. Stable manure which was formerly sold in Connecticut at 50c per load is now quickly disposed of at from $10 00 @ $12 00 per cord. From a late commercial exchange giving quotations, we find that a quantity of East Hartford Leaf brought 55c per pound, and some sold as high as 60c per pound. To show how much has been realized by farmers in Connecticut, who have used stable manure to a considerable extent, we instance this. One man sold last year a product of seven and a-half acres for over $12 000. The value of the Tobacco crop of Hartford county for the year 1871 alone aggregated over $4 000 000. Leaf Tobacco on this coast commands more than it does in the Eastern markets, why cannot more be realized by farmers who cultivate it systematically?

There was a time when many claimed that to foster our manufacturing interests would greatly retard our commercial growth. Such a theory, advanced many years, has been proven false by the rapid growth of our manufacturing interests within the last decade. The United States stands second on the list of manufacturing countries of the world, Great Britain occupying the first place. No one can gainsay that the protective policy of the party in power has brought about this desirable end and proven the fallacy of free trade views. A glance at the result will not only prove of interest to all but may or ought to stimulate our capitalists to renewed interest in establishing manufactories. The rapid growth of American manufactures, and the higher wages paid to workmen has attracted skilled operatives from almost every nation in the civilized world. The vast expanse of agricultural lands attracts still others, and so mechanical skill and agricultural labor have advanced together and helped one another. Their common prosperity has created a demand for foreign products of various kinds, manufacturers and producers looking elsewhere for raw materials, not available in the United States and consumers for certain necessaries and luxuries of life not obtainable in the United States for which they are forced to go abroad. The statistics show more and more conclusively year after year that a prosperous and lucrative foreign trade is dependent on the utmost development of internal resources. This applies to each individual State as it does to them collectively.

Produce Market.

WHEAT—Receipts continue fair, but they constitute lots purchased from one to three months ago. We present above the names of the only deep sea vessels to arrive at this port that will be available for taking away any of last year's crop unsold at the time of their arrival. The combined tonnage aggregates about 2,100 long tons. It is not improbable that sufficient Wheat will be on hand to load them. Market remains inactive outside of one or two small sales to a miller's agent—price private.

FLOUR—Receipts are again free. We are advised of orders for Sound ports which will be executed when the steamship California leaves—Tuesday March 26th. The call to-day was light and principally for local requirements. Prices unchanged.

OATS—Market firmer under a steady call with none coming forward. We are informed that one or two shipments are afloat from San Francisco, which will tend to cause prices to lose their firmness, unless there is an increased demand. No change in quotations.

POTATOES—The market is firm for choice. The Idaho now due is said to have one or two small lots aboard. The California, about due from Sound ports and Victoria is reported to have on a large quantity. We quote Oregon and Sound firm at 1¼@1¾c ₩ lb. California—Humboldt's, 1½c ₩ lb.

BUTTER—Choice is again scarce under a steady local demand. The steamship Idaho, as also the Oriflamme has large supply on. The quality now in market commands 30c ₩ lb for the best.

HAY—Prices are ruling lower by at least $2 50 ₩ ton for baled Timothy. We quote range to dealers and consumers at $20@25 ₩ ton. Other descriptions $11@16 ₩ ton.

FEED—Demand is increasing with prices unchanged since last report.

EGGS—Prices steady at 22c ₩ dozen.

PROVISIONS—The Chicago Journal of Commerce of Feb 29th says: Early in the week the market for Hog product ruled steady and firm. Later, however prices for Mess Pork and Lard met with a decline closing quiet at $12 25@12 25 for Mess Pork, and Lard active at $8 75@8 80. Meats quiet and firm. The packing to date of last Saturday footed up 1,149 097 against 872 920 to corresponding date last year and 918 087 for the season of 1870–71. The packing at Milwaukee to date is 306 000 against 232,742 to date last year and 241 000 for the season of 1870–71. In this market the demand rules steady for Bacon in jobbing lots. Other descriptions in good supply with prices unchanged since last report.

DRIED FRUITS—Chicago dates to March 1st report that there is a decided improvement in the demand for all kinds of Dry Fruits and prices have appreciated especially on Apples, Blackberries and Raspberries.
